Tuesday afternoon the judges will select the three winning designs and will then notify the winners of their selections so that they may be ready to place the designs on the windows Wednesday night.

EX-PW HERE WRITES FROM GERMAN HOME

Karl-Heinz Winkler, a German prisoner of war who was stationed at the PW camp here during 1945 has written Glenn Kennedy, Biglerville R. D., superintendent of storage at the Adams County Fruit Packing and Distributing company plant at Biglerville, that he has returned to Germany safely and is now "building up a new life again."

The prisoner of war, who during September and October, 1945, was one of a group of 40 prisoners working at the Biglerville plant, is living in Bremen in the British zone of Germany.

The letter reached Kennedy despite the address which was only "Mr. Kennedy, Aspers, Pennsylvania, near Gettysburg U. S. A."

"How Good I Looked"

In his letter Winkler said, "I think you will be a little bit surprised when you receive these lines from a former PW. . . . Well it lasted still a long, long time till we were shipped to Europe after our departure in October, 1945, from Gettysburg. Firstly we came to Indianapolis, and there it was May 1946 when we left the American soil and sailed for LeHavre, France. Here we stayed for a fortnight and came after a 2 day's trip by train in the near of Nuremberg, Germany into a release-camp for PW's.

"Here I had to wait for another week till I finally got my certificate of discharge. And then it was 7 June 1946 when I left that camp as a free man and travelled home. You will understand that it was a great surprise for my wife, as she had not received any post from me for a long time, when I suddenly entered the house one evening, home again from a country where I had been for about three years. They all wondered how good I looked in spite of all the years in a PW camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Kauffman were married Saturday, October 27, 1906, at the Methodist parsonage here by the Rev. W. W. Hartman. Mr. and Mrs. Wright were married in Baltimore on October 30, 1906, by the Rev. Mr. Riceman.

IMPROVEMENT OF CURRICULUM IS RECOMMENDED

Improvement of the elementary curriculum was urged Friday afternoon by Dr. Leversia L. Powers, advisor on elementary education of the Department of Public Instruction, at the concluding sessions of the Adams County Teachers' Institute.

"What we have now is a lot of ingredients. We will have to stir them around a lot, mix them up and let them bake for a while before we have a pie," she said in the talk given at St. James Lutheran church.

"We have got to see the problem as a whole. Everyone is interested in improving the quality of reading. But there is obviously more to reading than conning words. If you don't believe that try reading in some field that is totally strange to you. You will recognize the words as individual words, but the book will mean nothing to you. I for one could read a book of bridge rules all day and still know nothing about bridge because while the word vulnerable means something to me, that is I can recognize it, I don't know what it means in relation to bridge.

Must Consider Pupils

"In addition to that we have to consider the physical well-being of the youngsters whom we are trying to teach to read better. How are his eyes, his nerves, his emotions, what are his previous experiences? All of these and more enter into the reading. So you see in even such a thing as a problem of improving the quality of reading we find not one but 15 or 20 problems all related to the one problem we are trying to solve.

"The idea of having grades as separate little compartments into which the schools are divided and the idea of having the children obey without question simply because the teacher tells them to believe or do a thing are both adopted directly from the Prussians. They are not democratic ideas.

"We need an educational system in which each subject is correlated with the other rather than being taught as completely separate from anything else and we need to give the youngsters a chance to make their own decisions if we will train them to be good citizens in a democracy. By that I don't mean to do away with the teacher's authority and discipline in the schools. But the first graders should be allowed to make decisions within the limits of their abilities. The second graders should have a little more responsibility and so on through the classes so that by the end of his school life a student would be used to making decisions and taking responsibility.

Sessions End

"Now we are not proposing that the present curriculum on some Wednesday be thrown out the window and a new curriculum imposed. That would not work either, but we should work to gradually improve our curriculum and our schools."

Dr. Charles C. Noble, Dean at Syracuse university urged development of citizens with a better idea of community and social service in a talk given following the address by Doctor Powers.

The institute concluded with the teachers of grades seven through 12 visiting the Adams county library for a tea and program arranged by the library board of directors and the librarian. Teachers of grades one through six had visited the library Thursday. Leslie V. Stock, Biglerville, presided at Friday afternoon's institute meeting.

CITES NEED FOR FARMER-BANKER 'COOPERATION'

Bankers and farmers must find more ways of cooperation in order to help build a better standard of living for nations, Edmund W. Thomas, president of the First National bank here and president of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association, declared at a farmer-bankers meeting held in Harrisburg by Group Five of the PBA.

"The backbone of our nation and our economy is the farmer, and the banks have tremendous opportunity to be of additional service to the farmer," Thomas said.

"Farming through the years has changed from a vocation in which each farmer sought only to feed his own family to a business dedicated to feeding not only our own nation but also much of the remainder of the world.

Now A Profession

"With this change the farmer has had to develop new methods of production, new ways of work that have made farming more and more complicated and increasingly technical.

"It is this change that bankers must note in assisting the farmer. The man who once had only the problem of planting and using a horse to plow now has to be a chemist with a knowledge of spray programs and of insect and fungus life, a marketing specialist, an accountant, a student of soils, an erosion control engineer and a student of market trends.

"In a word, farming has changed from a craft to a profession. Today's farmer is a businessman and each farm is a business unto itself.

Group 5 Farms Rate High

"Today we must look upon the farm, when the farmer seeks credit, as a business. Does he have a fruit farm or a general farm? Is he a cattle raiser or a wheat raiser? What (Please Turn to Page 2)

NEGROES RALLY FRIDAY NIGHT

The Democratic administration in Washington, "all down the line through Roosevelt and Truman, has been fair to all of the people," Dr. Marshall Sheppard, Philadelphia, recorder of deeds in Washington, told a third ward Democratic party rally at the court house Friday night.

Speaking to a group that included both whites and negroes, the Philadelphian claimed the "Pennsylvania Republicans are no better than the Bilbos and Rankins in the Democratic party in the south. There are those who tell us to vote Republican because of the Bilbos in the Democratic party. Well the Bilbos are in the South and the Martins and Duffs are here in Pennsylvania and we should vote for the men as we know them. There is nothing we can do about Bilbo but there is something we can do about Republicans in this state who act like Bilbo."

Declaring that the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, has "done more than any other party to give everyone, white, black, yellow or whatever his race a square deal," the speaker claimed that "Governor Martin will not even allow negro veterans of World War II enter the national guard in this state, despite the fact that there are negroes in other national guard outfits in nearby states."

Other speakers included Dr. E. Duval Cowley, Harrisburg, who praised the work of Col. John S. Rice, Democratic candidate for governor while a member of the legislature, and Andrew Bradley of the Democratic state headquarters, Harrisburg. Fred Klunk, Democratic county chairman, presided at the meeting.

For A Bigger And Better GETTYSBURG

This is the fourth in a series of nine articles by nine representative citizens of Gettysburg on what, in their estimation, are the three most important community projects for Gettysburg.

By DR. J. WALTER COLEMAN
Supt., Gettysburg Battlefield

The tourist business is obviously high among the community assets of Gettysburg, and it is in a sense an industry which must be viewed as critically in this highly competitive age as any other type of business activity. The impression which is made on any and every visitor therefore, is a matter which concerns the entire community.

My contacts with the public here and in other areas of historic importance enable me to make certain observations which may be of interest to civic-minded readers. In general the reaction to food and lodging accommodations is favorable. Persons inquiring about points of local interest usually encounter a friendly and helpful attitude, but too many local citizens are not well enough acquainted with their community. The one unfavorable point that impresses visitors most with Gettysburg is the extent to which we deviate from the historic past in our community planning.

Architectural Character

Briefly, our signs, building fronts, new structures and general atmospheres could be made to serve as practical a purpose as they do now, and would add vastly to good visitor impression if they adhered to the period of the Civil War. The charm that is imparted to a community by valid architectural character is too well known to require elaboration. I need only point to the manner in which commercial firms have capitalized on this feature, for example the design of the A and P store or the railway station in Williamsburg, Virginia, or the stores of Concord, Mass.

Community planning and cooperation have paid great dividends in the French Quarter in New Orleans, the colorful frontier places in our West, and many towns and cities of New England. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in advocating such planning over a period of years, furnishes advice on proper procedure and the cost of carrying out such a project need not be more than our present haphazard system.

Patriotic Observances

In thinking of Gettysburg from the tourist viewpoint, the odors that pervade the Culp's Hill-Spangler's Spring area at certain times of the year have a tendency to discourage visitors from prolonging their stay in our town. This situation should be corrected next season, as I understand, is the present plan.

Many interested persons write annually to the National Military Park to inquire what program is planned for the observance of the anniversary of the battle and of the Lincoln visit. Local organizations are not overlooking November 19, but much more could be done with solid community support. July 1-4, however, is a natural occasion for us to observe, and aside from sound patriotic motives, the community would profit in a material way. Our Memorial Day programs, honoring the military dead as they do in a way that is dignified and non-political, indicate what might be done on other occasions. People want to come to Gettysburg at such times and they look to our community to provide them with patriotic programs.

Wagon Runs Over Child, 5; Unhurt

William Shellheimer, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shellheimer, near York Springs, apparently was not badly injured Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when a wagon with a ton of stone ran over the child's mid-section.

He was a patient at the Warner hospital today where doctors unable to discover external injuries were planning to take x-rays to see if he were injured internally by the weight of the wagon.

The child was said to have been riding on the wagon on the farm of George Anderson, where his father works. The wagon was being pulled by a tractor when the child fell off and the rubber tired rear wheel went over his body.

The accident was the second this week in which Dr. W. E. Flickinger has been called to care for a child who was run over by a rubber-tired farm vehicle and in each case the child was apparently uninjured. On Wednesday a Rice child, of Gardner R. D., fell from a tractor and the rear wheel of the tractor ran over the youngster. The child was pushed down into the soft ground without injury.

ROGGE 'FIRED' FOR STORY ON NAZI SCHEMES

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark accused O. John Rogge today of disclosing confidential information in a public address and dismissed him from the post of assistant to the attorney general.

In a crisp letter to Rogge, Clark declared "you willfully violated" regulations by quoting from a de-partment report in a speech detailing what Rogge said were Nazi schemes to defeat President Roosevelt in 1936, 1940 and 1944.

Clark said the information came from Rogge's own report on the war-time session cases against 30 Americans, which have been in abeyance since a mistrial in 1942.

Swarthmore Speech

The ousted official could not be reached for comment last night.

Rogge, in a speech Tuesday night at Swarthmore college, said he had learned from captured Nazi documents and interviews with German officials that, among other things, before the 1940 election "the Nazis had a fantastic scheme to get John L. Lewis, the labor leader, to come out against the election of President Roosevelt."

"This scheme involved Hermann Goering, a Nazi agent by the name of Joachim Hertel, and William R. Davis, a promoter in the oil business," Davis, whose German and Mexican oil connections once were investigated by Congress, died in 1941.

In his dismissal letter to Rogge, made public at the unusual hour of 12:30 a.m., Clark said: "It has come to my attention that you have made certain statements in a public address that could only come from your report filed with me" on the session cases. In the report, Clark noted, Rogge recommended the government discontinue prosecuting the cases.

"Willful Violation"

"On the day before your speech at Swarthmore," Clark's letter continued, "and during our discussion in reference to newspaper stories appearing that morning, which claimed quotations of your report, you stated to me you had no intention of using the text or substance of your report in such speech and that it would be highly unethical to do so."

"It therefore appears that you willfully violated the long-standing rules and regulations of the department of justice and it becomes necessary for me to sever your connection with the department."

The dismissal was made effective at the close of business yesterday. Rogge said in his Swarthmore speech he learned the German foreign office set up in 1939 an "American committee" charged with trying to beat Roosevelt.

U.S. MAY SEIZE STRUCK AIRLINE

(By The Associated Press)

The possibility of government seizure and operation of the strike-bound Trans World Airlines arose today as a wage dispute remained deadlocked and there was little indication of early settlement of the costly work stoppage.

The management and the 1,400 striking pilots, after turning down a proposal that they resume flights on 28,000 miles of international routes, both expressed willingness for the government to take over the lines.

Conferees between the company and union officials with the National Mediation board have failed to settle the six-day old dispute. Board Chairman Frank Douglass was to meet today with Jack Frye, TWA president. The strike was called Monday by David L. Behncke, president of the AFL Air Lines Pilots association, and the company estimated it is losing $2,000,000 income weekly.

"Firstly I could not get accustomed to the new life, as we lost almost everything, but we are building up a new life again with the few things we get and now I feel already fine at home and it has to be added that my wife and also my parents are all okay in spite of the terrible years of war, and that means a lot for me."

The victory marked the fourth straight victory for Coach Eddie Waleski's outfit and was the third straight 7-0 decision.

In the third period Lancaster drove to the Delone 12-yard line after intercepting a Squire pass. The complexion of the game changed a few seconds later when Clingan snared a Lancaster pass and raced for his score. Rider added the extra point on a line plunge.

Delone had one other scoring opportunity which came in the second period. The Squires moved to Lancaster's 13 but lost the ball on a fumble.

Each team collected eight first downs.

Scotland Yard Has New Jewel Mystery

London, Oct. 26 (AP)— Daring jewel thieves have taken $40,000 in gems at the home of the Marchioness of Hartington, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, Scotland Yard announced today, and made away with a rich loot in two other homes.

Gems and furs valued at $20,000 were stolen from an Orme Square home, and diamonds and heirlooms worth $3,200 were taken from the St. James palace home of Lady Piers Legh, another titled American woman.

Scotland Yard, still hunting for the Willy Cat burglar who stole $80,000 in gems from the Duke and Duchess of Windsor 10 days ago, noted a similarity in the crafty preparation and almost ghostlike entry in the new robberies.

The victim of the St. James palace robbery is Lady Piers Legh, the former Sarah Polk of Nashville, Tenn., who married Sir Piers Legh, master of the king's household, in 1920. Sir Piers was equerry to the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales.

Full Schedule Of Week-End Hockey

(By The Associated Press)

A full schedule of games in the American Hockey league tonight may result in some juggling of the western division leadership, currently held by Cleveland. Hershey maintains a safe lead at the top of the eastern half.

The Indianapolis Capitals, who set a league record last year when they scored 286 goals, are crowding Cleveland for western honors. The APS go to St. Louis tonight while Cleveland entertains New Haven.

Hershey will be at home to Buffalo, Providence goes to Pittsburgh and Springfield entertains Philadelphia in the other contests on tonight's card. Hershey has won all five of its games to date, while New Haven is in the runner-up spot in the eastern division with three wins, one loss and one tie.

Only one of the divisional leaders will see action tomorrow night. Hershey battles the Reds at Providence while Cleveland is idle. Indianapolis will be host to Pittsburgh, New Haven entertains Philadelphia and St. Louis goes to Boston. Springfield is the only other idle member of the circuit.

NATIONS SEEK TO CURB REDS' POWER OF VETO

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)— A swelling chorus of United Nations demands challenged Russia today to renounce her frequent use of the veto power in the Security Council. Some U.N. delegates said Soviet reaction to the pressure would heavily influence the future success of the peace-enforcement agency.

The veto issue overshadows all others and has marked the clear line of conflict between Russia and the Western powers as initial sessions of the U.N. Assembly pushed through a lengthy round of speech-making preparatory to coming to grips with specific problems next week.

Another session of oratory was slated today (11 a. m. EST) with speeches from the delegates of Chile, Norway, Liberia, and Turkey. Officials planned to wind up this phase of the Assembly meeting by the middle of next week.

"Moral Pressure"

Both the United States and Britain were in the forefront of the drive to persuade Russia through moral pressure and aroused public opinion to restrict her future use of the veto power to very rare cases. But some British-American differences appeared over how to get the best results in this effort.

The British are using frontal assault tactics. The Americans, evasively hoping that some conciliatory gestures by the Russians yesterday might herald a change in the Soviet attitude, reportedly favor a less direct, more kid-gloved approach.

Delivering Britain's policy speech in the general debate session last night, Philip Noel-Baker, British chief delegate, accused Russia of "reckless use" of the veto and said that if it continued the Security Council would be rendered helpless to play its part in preserving world peace and security.

Preceding Noel-Baker, delegates of Argentina and Venezuela added their demands for changes in the Security Council voting system. India, however, spoke for the rule requiring unanimous agreement among the Council's Big Five before the agency can act.

CITES NEED FOR

kind of a manager is the man running the individual farm? How well and what does he produce? Does he have the equipment to best work his farm? Those are the questions we must ask ourselves and decision on loans should be based on questions of that type rather than entirely on what is the value per acre of the farm. As in all other businesses, the farmer who is the best manager makes the most profit and thus is a better credit risk no matter what the value of the real estate may be."

While seven out of the eight groups into which the FBA is divided plan to hold farmer-banker meetings in order to increase the understanding and cooperation between the bankers and the farmers, Group Five will probably be most interested in the idea because it has such a large farm population. Dr. Arms of Pennsylvania State College told the group at Harrisburg.

The value of the lands and farms in group five, which includes 10 counties besides Adams, comprise 22 per cent of the value of all farms in the state and the groups produced in the section secure 28 per cent of the farm income for the group's farmers. There are 1 1/2 million tillable acres in the area with the value of the land and buildings totaling $253,000,000.

L. W. Kuhn, Bendersville, county banker representative; J. D. Miller, Biglerville, member of the group agriculture committee, and M. T. Hartman, county agent, also attended the session.

The next similar meeting to be attended by Thomas will be a session to be held by Group 4 at Milton, Pa., on November 13.

CHINESE ARMIES NEARING KOREA

Peiping, Oct. 26 (AP)— Two U. S. trained Chinese armies, lancing 59 to 73 miles in two days, seized the port of Antung at Korea's border today and sealed off an undetermined number of Communist troops in South Manchuria.

An emergency military conference announced the lightning capture of Antung. Front dispatches said Antung's defenders were falling back to the northeast toward the Communist-held areas of northern Manchuria.

All other Communist forces active in Southern Manchuria were caught, however, in a huge government pinchers, for Chefoo, their only port of escape in China proper, was under attack from land and sea.

A news blackout still hung over the government assault on Chefoo, which is 240 miles southwest of Antung across the Yellow sea and which served as a landing and take-off point for Communists operating in Manchuria.

The two blows appeared closely co-ordinated and it was likely their strategy was mapped at recent high military conferences in Peiping.

Gen. Tu Li-ming, National commander in Manchuria, hurled his U. S. trained and equipped 52nd army southeasternward down the Mukden-Antung railway. The new Sixth army, also American trained, struck almost due eastward for Antung.

Chambersburg Gains 14-0 Win Over Scrappy Maroon Team Here Friday Evening

A hard-fighting Gettysburg high school football team held the highly favored Chambersburg Trojans to a 14-0 verdict here Friday evening in a South Penn conference game before a crowd of about 3,200 fans.

The Trojans marched 75 yards for a touchdown in the second period with Breckbill finally going over from the four-yard line. Midway in the third period Young broke through right tackle to race 80 yards for a score. Schuchman added both extra points on placement boots.

Coach Bob Beard's lads put on a fine exhibition of interference for runners and pass receivers which paid dividends.

Protect Runners

During their first touchdown drive the Trojans took to sweeping end runs which usually found the ball carrier with five and six men as protectors. The same was true on punts. Hess outkicked Breckbill by a wide margin but his boots were usually returned for good yardage when the kicker was given fine blocking whereas the Maroon receiver was alone for the most part on handling punts.

The Maroons played nice ball at times and threw a scare into their opponents in the first quarter.

Coach Forney's lads threatened in the opening minutes. Hottle's opening kickoff went into the end zone. After failing to gain sufficient yardage for a first down Breckbill booted to his own 44. The Maroons were held and Hess kicked out on the 24. Two plays netted but three yards. On the next punt Breckbill booted the ball high and a strong wind drove it toward the Trojan goal and it went out on the visitors' 18.

Maroons Threaten

On the first play Sharrah swept around right end for a first down on the 5. Chambersburg was equal to the occasion and held. Sharrah was thrown back on the 19. Hess picked up a yard at left guard. Two incomplete passes gave the visitors the ball on the 18.

Chambersburg pounded out two straight first downs on balltoting by Kane and Young. The Maroons braced and held on the Trojan 45 and Rodgers took Breckbill's punt on the Gettysburg 25 where he was immediately dropped.

Hess was soon forced to kick, the ball going out on Chambersburg's 44. On the next play Sterner recovered a fumble on the Trojans' 43 as the period ended.

Hess and Sharrah alternated to move the ball for a first down on the 33 but again the Trojans stopped the drive and forced Hess to punt to Laird on the 28. Young and Quivers made a first down on the next two plays. A 15-yard hold penalty moved the ball back to the 25 from where the invaders launched their touchdown drive.

Breckbill Tallies

With Young featuring the attack on a series of sweeping end runs, Chambersburg moved to the 26. Oiler then whipped a pass to Leisher on the 6 for the fourth straight first down. Breckbill went over right guard for two yards and on the next play he went around right end to hit pay dirt. Schuchman converted on a placement.

Early in the third period the Maroons gained possession of the pigskin on the Trojans' 37 when Cole recovered a fumble but again they could not capitalize. Three plays netted but three yards and Hess kicked into the end zone.

Young Runs 80 Yards

On the next play Young broke through right guard, shook off one or two Maroons who laid hands on him and with some nice blocking raced 80 yards into pay dirt. Again Schuchman converted.

Dale Sheffer, who played a beautiful game for the Maroons, recovered Quiver's fumble on the Chambersburg 41 late in the third period but the Maroons got no where and right after the start of the final period Chambersburg took the ball on the 28 through a punt.

There was little action until late in the final quarter when Snyder recovered Hess' bobble on the Gettysburg 21. Shatzer lost six yards at left end. A pass was grounded but then Shiner connected on an aerial to S. Johnson for a first down on the 2.

An almost certain Trojan score was frustrated when Rodgers, another fine Maroon performer, pounced on a fumble behind the goal line for a touchback and the Maroons took over on the 20.

After Hess picked up a yard at center, Rodgers swept around right end for a first down on the 34. Sheffer, Hottle and Hess went out of the game on a series of quick injuries as the game ended with Gettysburg in possession of the ball deep in its own territory.

The Maroons gained three first downs to their opponents' eight. Gettysburg completed one of 10 passes while Chambersburg made good on two out of eight.

Big Weight Advantage

Chambersburg outweighed the Maroons by a goodly margin and looked particularly good in the second period. However, the Forney-men finally managed to break up their sweeping end runs in the final half and, although outplayed, made things interesting for their opponents.

The Maroons' line play at times was all that could be asked but several lapses hurt at crucial stages.

Next Friday evening the Maroons journey to Hershey to meet the unbeaten and defending conference champs.

A large crowd was treated to a fine exhibition by the Chambersburg band during the intermission. A singing chorus of 32 lassies sang selections on both sides of the field while the band provided adept marches on some intricate formations.

HECK TRIO ON LEHIGH SQUAD

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—The three Heck brothers—Guy, Ted and Bill—threaten to make a family affair out of Lehigh university's football team.

The husky brothers worked out yesterday for the first time—and it was the first time that Lehigh has had three members from one family on its football squad. All are army veterans.

Bill, a 22-year old sophomore halfback who weighs in at 195 pounds, already has seen action in a Lehigh uniform. He scored the team's first touchdown of the year.

Guy and Ted returned to classes yesterday as Lehigh's fall semester got underway. Guy, a 20-year old freshman, was a high school varsity center and brother Ted played on Lehigh's team before he joined the army. Weighing 235, Ted hopes to land a line position. Now 24, he continued his education in the army and is scheduled to graduate in March.

Ted was a combat infantry captain and holds the Silver Star, among other decorations. Guy and Bill served in the air corps, the former as an aerial gunner and Bill as a technician.

Emmitsburg 9 Will Meet Hanover Sunday

Emmitsburg and Hanover will clash on the McSherrystown baseball field Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the second of their three-game series for the championship of the Penn-Maryland Baseball League.

The Marylanders copped the initial game two weeks ago by staging a four-run rally in the sixth to gain a 5-3 victory at Emmitsburg.

Briscuso is expected to hurl for Emmitsburg while Maul will probably toe the slab for Hanover.

Emmitsburg won the semi-final series by taking two of three games from McSherrystown while Hanover gained the finals by sweeping two straight from Blue Ridge Summit.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Both Yale and Princeton told the University of Virginia that they couldn't fulfill home-and-home football contracts because the Ivy agreement ruled out long trips. Now Virginians are beginning to wonder how far it is from New Haven to Madison, Wisc., where Yale has agreed to play. . . . Ray (Bear) Wolf, former North Carolina coach, will get a big welcome when he brings his Florida U. team to play Carolina Saturday and not all the folks in Chapel Hill will wish him bad luck. . . . Tex Sullivan and Bill Daly have bought the contract of Heavyweight Al Hoosman for $4,000. Half the dough goes to Jimmy Johnston's widow.

PREP REPS

Kansas high school grid followers are high an Halfback Wallace Elston of Sterling, who scored all of his team's seven touchdowns in its first two games on runs of from 33 to 92 yards. . . . In Tennessee they still like Bob McCoy of Chattanooga Central, who had scored in 17 consecutive games before he was injured early this season. . . . The prize prep story, however, comes from Ames, Iowa, where the high school swamped Perry 55-0 recently. Coach Ken Wells had used up his entire squad of 39 players when he spied Ken King tooting a hot trumpet in the band between halves. Wells hustled King into uniform and in the second half Ken tossed a touchdown pass.

THE REF IS ROUGH

Bill Wranek, U. of Virginia Publicitor, wonders if the Cavaliers and Pennsylvania's Quakers didn't set a record of some sort Saturday when they drew eight penalties on nine consecutive plays. . . . It went this way. It was Penn's first down on its own 45 when Tony Minisi hit tackle for eleven yards. But the ref saw some holding and penalized Penn 15 yards. On the next play Virginia recovered a Penn fumble. The Cavaliers fired four passes; two were completed but each time Virginia was offside. Minisi intercepted the fourth pass and ran it back 16 yards but the ref took away 15 on a clipping charge. Both teams were offside on the next play. Penn then quick-kicked and on Virginia's first running play both were offside again. . . . The sequence ended there, but the Cavaliers gained ten yards and the ball while the ref was carrying on.

The sequence ended there, but the Cavaliers gained ten yards and the ball while the ref was carrying on.

Emmitsburg won the semi-final series by taking two of three games from McSherrystown while Hanover gained the finals by sweeping two straight from Blue Ridge Summit.

Describing the present as a time when death stands at attention, Doctor Sayre declared that it is now a "race between education and catastrophe." We must have peace, for "without peace science hurries us to destruction."

The Stuckenber lectureship, consisting of a fund of $1,000, presented by Mrs. Mary G. Stuckenber, provides for an annual lecture on some phase of sociology from the standpoint of Christian ethics.

Today's Talk

The traveler is the man, or woman, of action and imagination. Not content to stay in one spot, he covets far-flung fields, wherein he may view activity, creation, and the inception of things. The traveler is usually a thinker, an observer, and a student.

A young man came to my office, many years ago, and some drawings upon my desk. I asked where he came from, and he replied that he came from San Francisco, where he was the sporting cartoonist. I made him an offer and he accepted, with a broad, appreciative smile. That young man was Bob ("Believe It or Not") Ripley. He has since traveled in about every country on this globe, and gained an education that no college could possibly give to him.

The traveler usually keeps his eyes wide open. There is so much to see, so many surprises. I have just read a book about India, written over a hundred years ago. The author had never been to India; nevertheless I traveled there as I read the book. We don't always have to take a train, an automobile, or a plane, in order to travel. The late Dr. John H. Finley once wrote that, for recreation, he traveled many a foreign land right from his library chair!

Our thoughts are continually traveling, and we can make them travel so much farther by associating them with the thoughts of other travelers. The author is a traveler in the book that he writes, or in the thoughts that he send afar. What a traveler the Bible has been! And what an influence every great book has been in the world.

A newspaper man has just returned from Russia. He was given free access to wherever he wanted to go, and to whom he wished to talk. He had a good story to tell. Most of his time was spent in talking to the people. None of them wanted another war. Most of them were grateful for the help given to them by the democratic nations. He told them that neither did we, on this side of the world, want war. I hope that his traveling influences those who fog the atmosphere with their talk of war.

It is an education to travel. It broadens one's viewpoint. And it helps to make us all akin as friends—everywhere.

According to statistics too many drivers are dying to see how fast the new car will go.

Here's one Less Worry

Ever stop for air and while fiddling with the tire valve stem hear a bit of air escaping?

It will tempt you to think that the tube is leaking, but don't be so easily fooled. Tires often build up air pressure between the rim and the shoe, and the only point of escape is around the rim hole through which the tube stem protrudes.

One owner examined the stem and noted a crack in the rubber which is vulcanized to it. That to him was proof positive that the stem was leaking air. At the tire station they told him that it is quite common for the rubber to be cracked here, but that actually there was no leakage.

Notes From My Diary

Drove over a stretch of concrete road built in 1912. . . The first piece of this kind of hard surfacing built in New Jersey, and still in fair shape. . . It's tough enough to have a flat tire but why do so many drivers fail to carry jacks and the necessary tire tools. . . I should have known better than to judge the size of a strange town by its prominence on a road map. . . Went right by a "map" town that consisted of a red barn and a gasoline pump. . . Get by that rubbish truck before something blows over on the road. . . One let go with a bag of broken beer bottles just in front of me. . . It pays to slow down to make sure of your road directions when nearing intersections. . . You may have to drive a quarter of a mile to get back to where you were if you make a mistake, not to mention time lost in swinging around the curved approaches of a complicated intersection.

Pointer On Parts

If you are replacing a pair of parts these days be sure to inspect them closely. Even though they are authorized parts, purchased from your car leader, they may vary a bit in construction due to the fact that manufacturers are having to buy from other than their regular sources in order to meet the demand. For instance, if you are replacing front brake drums it would make a difference if you happened to get two that are not good mates. Check carefully on this.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"I wish that more motorists would realize that usually when they replace piston rings they are doing less than half the job of correcting the difficulty of oil pumping. There may be wear on the cylinder walls, a condition that calls for inserting new sleeves or reboring. The other thing to consider is wear on the piston ring grooves. New rings may not fit their grooves well enough to check loss of oil behind them. Understand that I am considering the pistons and cylinders alone and not the motor bearings which also play a role in oil consumption.

"One way to meet the problem of worn ring grooves is to widen them 1/32nd inch and cut a recess this width in the upper part of the top groove. An insert this width is installed and locked in the recess. Then you can install new rings of the same width as the originals." These cool mornings are quite apt to leave a deposit of moisture on the tops of the spark plugs, the distributor cap and the coil. Wipe off these parts before you start starting, and the engine will fire more quickly. If you do not have time to change to much lighter oil put a pint or so of break-in oil into the crankcase to lean out the rest. The motor will crank faster. Make sure the battery posts are clean and the connectors tight. Tighten the connection at the starter-motor, and see that this unit's commutator is clean. If the engine doesn't fire on the first few turns, wait a few minutes. A weak battery will always recover a little. Keep the clutch pedal down. Don't have the lights or radio on.

Just For Your Safety
It isn't always true that wheels won't lock and slide when the car is braked on a rough road. The uneven surface may cause enough lack of balance and equalization to throw the car into a skid.

A particularly bad place to overtake another car is on the way down a sharp hill which is immediately followed by a sharp rise. If a third car is coming down the grade ahead the situation will be highly dangerous. All three cars will be gaining speed.

Hold Those Hub Caps

A few years ago they were stealing tires; now they're stealing equipment. High on the list of desirables are fancy hub caps. All a pilferer needs is a large screw-driver. Professionals are making a business of helping themselves to the caps of parked cars and peddling them to filling stations where they readily sell to those who have lost their caps or ruined them in accidents.

All of this has prompted one reader to suggest a locking device for hub caps, just something to discourage the less professional thief. So you'll probably be seeing such locks in the near future. The extra large cap on my own car requires a special type of iron for removal. Perhaps other car manufacturers will think of novel and exclusive ways of keeping hub caps on.

Why That "Free Play"?

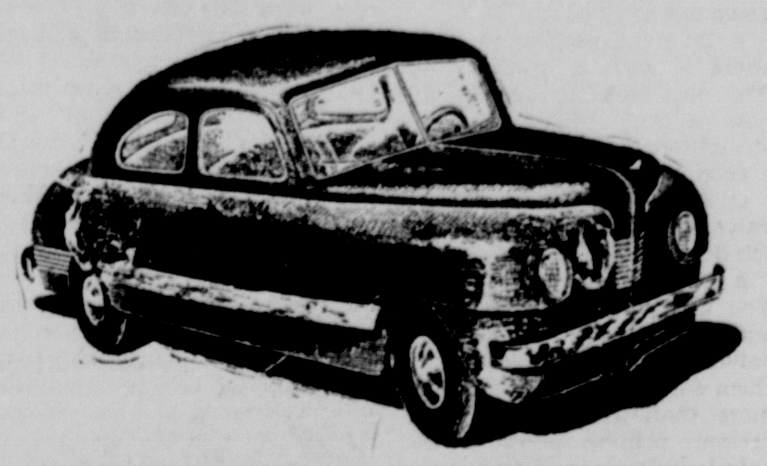

Many have recently asked what happens if there isn't the usual one-inch of free travel of the clutch pedal before the clutch starts to disengage. It is a good question because it leads to a clearer picture of what goes on in this important car unit. The free travel should be at the start of the pedal's down- (Please Turn to Page 5) ward movement. Unless there is this travel the clutch is never entirely engaged, and the throwout bearing is in constant operation. This causes slippage and more rapid clutch plate wear. Also the throwout bearing wasn't designed to be operating all the time. It then wears too rapidly.

Told By The Plugs

To those who don't bother to check over the spark plugs because they think the plugs are able to take care of themselves let me emphasize the point that checking plugs is especially valuable in getting a line on the engine in general. Fouled or dirty plugs will tell you a lot about the efficiency of the rings. You may want to use some gum solvents to free up the rings, and then re-check the plug points to see if you have made any progress. The fouling may also be due to a weak coil, improperly adjusted breaker points or to generally poor ignition. An engine that is running too hot will tend to burn the plug points, or you may find that the engine needs a cooler type of plug. Make this inspection every 2,500 miles. It's no mere frill.

It's A Motor Question

Q. In spite of the fact that I have had alignment checks made at several places the front wheels still are "out" and tire wear is excessive. Have you ever heard of wheels that could not be lined up? H. L.

A. Do you expect me to admit that there is such a word as "can't"? This just looks to me like another case of bent wheel. Until it is straightened you can't expect to do a good alignment job.

Q. Is it really necessary to check valve springs when having a valve job done? Wm. L. B.

A. Yes, if you want a good job. You will want to know what pressure is required to compress the valves, but more important is testing them for uniformity. If a spring is more than five pounds under the pressure reading for the others it is defective. Replace it while you have the opportunity.

Q. What would cause all the trouble I am having with voltage regulators? Have used two new ones, and each time the points become burned. I am sure the units have been properly grounded. H. R. S.

A. Is this car equipped with a radio? If so, check to see if there is a radio by-pass condenser connected to the field terminal of either the generator or the regulator. Check also to see if there is reversed polarity of the generator.

Q. I can get new anti-freeze for my car. Should I use this or go ahead with the old stuff I saved from the past three years? The old anti-freeze looks to be clean. T. F. Jr.

A. Use the new stuff. The old anti-freeze is acid from slow escape of gas vapors past the cylinder head gasket. It will tend to eat into the gasket.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

PA. RETIREMENT BOARD NEEDS TEACHERS: RICE

(By The Associated Press)

Calling for "teacher representation" on the state school employees' retirement board, John S. Rice, Democratic nominee for governor, declared last night "it's their board and their money" and they should "certainly have a right to be heard."

"It's no wonder that teachers worry about their future security," he said in a speech at Johnstown.

Rice said he was informed by the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers that instructors were "taken by surprise" by being offered the "dubious privilege" of paying more "to receive the kind of pension they thought they had been entitled to all along."

He referred to a recent plan to revise payment rates to the retirement fund.

Guffey Warns

U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, also speaking at Johnstown, stated that a "Republican victory means the end of the Roosevelt program at home . . . the end of America's strong position in foreign affairs."

"In the 1940 campaign the Roosevelt supporters, who are now labeled 'rats,' were scorned and insulted as 'paupers,'" he declared. "The end men change a little each time, but the campaign of vituperation doesn't. They abused and insulted Roosevelt in life; in death they are still as bitter and vindictive as ever."

At Bethlehem, U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers said in behalf of the Democratic campaign that "the Republicans in the 79th Congress have espoused a program which flatly invites a new depression."

"They have sent prices of the basic necessities of life soaring out of the reach of more and more people who need them by outright murder of price control at a time when scarcities have not yet been overcome," the Philadelphia Democrat added.

He added that "the death of price control as an effective barrier to profiteering and inflation hastens the day when production will catch up with demand because high prices have shrunk the demand for many goods to an alarming degree."

MARTIN POUNDS ADMINISTRATION FOR HIGH TAXES

(By The Associated Press) Governor Martin said last night the Republican party has kept taxes "as low as possible" and provided "adequate state service" in comparison with what he termed the "high taxes and great spending" of the Democratic administration of former Gov. George H. Earle.

Two GOP administrations since 1939, he said in a speech at Easton, have eliminated or reduced nine types of taxes for saving "of about $207,000,000 in a two-year period," and, additionally, paid off $48,000,000 in bonds, appropriated $76,000,000 for postwar construction and accumulated $58,000,000 for postwar highway work.

"The Democrats piled up the debts but it was the Republicans who paid them," the GOP candidate for the U. S. Senate declared in asking voters to "remember this the next time you hear a promoter who is trying to ride to political glory on other people's money."

"Bungling and Red Tape" From the same platform, Brig. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said "Bureaucratic bungling and governmental red tape from Washington have made a joke of the housing program."

He added it "would be useless for a special session of the Pennsylvania General Assembly to pass any legislation seeking to inaugurate a state housing program" because of what he said was "federal bureaucratic control over all phases of construction."

GOP State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, in a statement issued at Harrisburg, declared U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, candidate for a third term, "knew precisely what he was doing, with whom he was dealing and the purposes of the deal" when he visited Mexico and conferred with Mexican President Cardenas in 1937.

Taylor charged — Guffey Denies Taylor commented on Guffey's assertion in an interview that he had visited Mexico in behalf of the late Walter A. Jones, former chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission.

Taylor has charged—and Guffey denied—that the Pittsburgh senator was in back of a deal to ship Mexican oil to Nazi Germany before the start of the European war.

"Guffey knew as well as anyone that Walter Jones . . . wasn't sold

CRUCIAL GAMES ON PRO GRIDIRON

New York, Oct. 26 (AP) — Three teams, the Chicago Bears and Washington Redskins of the National Football league and the Cleveland Browns of the All-America conference, place their unbeaten records on the block tomorrow as the two professional loops approach the season's halfway mark.

The Browns, winners of seven straight, meet the San Francisco Forty-Niners in Cleveland. The Giants, two-touchdown underdog, will be strengthened by the return of backs Frank Reagan, Dave Brown and Phil Ragazzoni, who have been on the injured list.

The Redskins, also owning a record of three victories and a tie in four games will be host to the Philadelphia Eagles, who must win in order to remain in the running for the eastern half title. The Eagles have divided four games.

Other games include the Rams and Cards in Chicago, the Packers and Detroit Lions in Green Bay and the Pittsburgh Steelers and Yanks in Boston.

Re-elect . . .
Chester H. Gross . . . to Congress
Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1946

The House of Representatives is composed of 435 members. It constitutes one of the three branches of our government. It is the sole bulwark between the people of our country and dictatorship. It has been referred to as "an anvil which has worn out many hammers."

The present House consists of:
Lawyers . . . 232
Business Men . . . 61
No Stated . . . 2
Profession . . . 41
Teachers . . . 21
Bankers . . . 16
Farmers . . . 15
Publishers . . . 15
Labor . . . 1
Representatives 4 Vacancies . . . 2
This represents a cross-section of America.

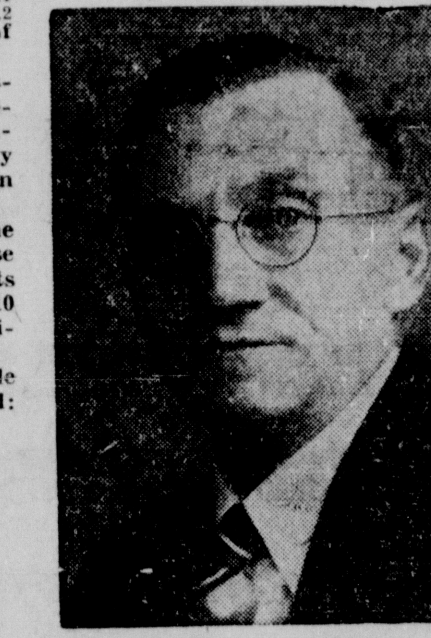

Because of the seniority rule established in the House of Representatives, it is of primary importance to the people that they continue their Congressman in office.

The members most quoted in the press and on the radio are those holding important committee posts and are serving terms of from 10 to 39 years. There are approximately 101 such members.

The late Champ Clark, while Speaker of the House in 1916, said:

"A man has to learn to be a Representative just as he must learn to be a blacksmith, a carpenter, a farmer, an engineer, a lawyer or a doctor. The best rule is for a district to select a man young enough to learn and to grow, with at least fair capacity, industrious, honest, energetic, sober and courageous, and keep him there so long as he discharges his duties faithfully and well. Such a man will gradually rise to high position and influence in the House."

After six years of service in the House of Representatives, Congressman Gross now has the seniority and experience that qualify him for important committee assignments. Furthermore, he is assured that when the House organizes next year he will be given a position on the important Committee on Agriculture. This will give the Congressional District more prestige than it has had for a number of years.

HOW TO VOTE FOR GROSS . . .
[X] CHESTER H. GROSS
OR VOTE STRAIGHT
[X] REPUBLICAN
21st CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT
YORK-ADAMS-FRANKLIN COS.

The 21st Congressional District has sent many good men to Congress, but has never kept a man in office long enough to become a committee chairman. That is the only reason we have never had a chairman.

We Have Just Come Through A Bloody War that lasted for seven years with 30,000,000 casualties and a debt for us of $300,000,000,000, and it is still growing. The interest on our present debt is 20% greater than was the Federal Budget in 1929.

It is more than a year since the shooting stopped and now we find ourselves helplessly involved internationally and at home, bound by red-tape and weighed down by bureaucracy, graft and regimentation to the extent that it is impossible to get merchandise into legitimate channels of trade or the wheels of industry turning. All the while black markets flourish, prices rise, discontent grows, Communism takes root, and crime and disrespect for law and order increases.

Our only hope lies in a change in Administration. We need a strong government that will enforce laws and practice economy. Our people must be brought together so we can work together and redeem our American way of life. This must be our first order of business. Then we can better serve the world. We are entering an atomic age. Unless we act wisely we may destroy ourselves and the world.

The New Deal has proven its inefficiency in its corruption and greed for power. It has loaded the federal payroll with more than 3,000,000 employees and now occupies office space outside federally-owned buildings totaling 222,000,000 square feet, equal to 111 times the size of Radio City.
To break it up we must elect a Republican Congress this fall, then we can elect a Republican President in 1948.

SPECULATION ON USSR REASONS FOR BIG ARMY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Winston Churchill says he has evidence to support his suggestion in the British House of Commons that Russia has more than 2,000,000 men on a war footing in Soviet-occupied Europe, and he described his speech as a "serious warning"—but leaves it to us to figure out its exact significance.

Britain's war-time prime minister gave us a clue. Referring to his sensational "iron curtain" address at Fulton, Mo., last spring, he declared that it had been "outpaced and overpassed by the movements of events," and added:

"At the time I did not believe that the Soviet government wanted war but that what they wanted was the fruits of war. I still fervently hope and trust that this is still correct, and on the whole I believe it is still correct."

Disquieting Impression
Mr. Churchill left a most disquieting impression which was referred to by Minister of State Hector McNeill in discussing the outlook for European peace. Said Mr. McNeill:

"I cannot share the pessimism, if I do not misinterpret Mr. Churchill, which he offered in his speech."

So much for our premise. Now why should Moscow find it expedient to maintain so many troops in the occupied areas?

That's a momentous question, but fortunately there is more than one answer to it, or so it seems to me. If there were only one answer it would mean war, and Mr. Churchill wouldn't have been able to say that he still believed the Soviet Union didn't want war.

Have Other Business

The business of fighting-men isn't necessarily to fight. Their duties include preservation of order, the maintenance of their government's authority, and, by their very presence in strong force, the prevention of any intrusion of occupied territories by other nations. There I believe we find the most logical answers to our query, although it's important to note that it is a vast economy for a government to have its standing army living off the land in other countries.

As a result of the war, Russia has extended her zone of influence westward into Central Europe, and has overrun most of the Balkan peninsula. She has created a great new politico-economic empire. But she is in process of consolidating that empire. Some of its units still are shaky. It's not difficult, therefore, to understand the presence of Soviet troops at strategic points in this area.

Present State of Mind

Then, too, some hair-trigger situations remain to be straightened out. One of these is the Soviet-Turkish dispute over control of the Dardanelles—and armed might is a strong argument. There is Austria, which Moscow is firmly bent on adding to its zone of influence, and most certainly won't move Soviet troops away until the matter is ironed out.

In short, Russia apparently figures that packing a gun gives added authority—and that's an argument which it is difficult to answer.

But the horse-sense of it is that the Russians don't want another world war at this juncture. For that reason they are likely to try to avoid even a small war, because even a minor upheaval could develop into a global conflict.

That, I believe, is Moscow's present state of mind.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
Acclaimed one of the foremost motion pictures of this season, Paramount's Hal Wallis production, "The Searching Wind," is due next Monday at the Majestic theatre, with Robert Young, Sylvia Sydney and Ann Richards in starring roles.

The screen play of the widely-discussed Lillian Hellman stage hit was written by the author herself. "The Searching Wind" tells a provocative story of adult love set against the teen-age background of current world affairs.

Featured in the film are veteran actors Dudley Digges, Albert Basserman, Dan Seymour, Ian Wolfe, and newcomer Douglas Dick, the latter said to be sure-fire star material.

WEDNESDAY
There's enough of the bad in the best of us to thoroughly enjoy the high-handed goings-on in Arnold Pressburger's exciting new comedy-drama, "A Scandal in Paris," coming on Wednesday to the Majestic theatre through United Artists.

George Sanders, Signe Hasso and Carole Landis star in this fabulous story of a keen-witted rogue who stole hearts and diamonds impartially during the 19th century. Sanders, in the title role of Vidocq, breaks out of jail in the opening sequences with the help of Akim Tamiroff. Tamiroff plays the part of his side-kick, Emile, a knife-throwing rascal with a tendency to "throw" first and ask questions afterwards.

THURSDAY
Dan Duryea isn't exactly a cop in "Black Angel" which plays at the Majestic theatre Thursday, even though he does a bit of sleuthing, but he turns in one of the most arresting performances seen on the screen this season.

Under his new deal with Universal, Duryea is given a chance to be a heavy with a heart and he delivers in his first starring role. The picture, based on a story by Cornell Woolrich, has a surprise ending that probably has O. Henry striving for a rebuttal. It also boasts one of the loveliest actresses on the screen today in June Vincent and certainly does not suffer from the presence of Peter Lorre as the third star in the cast.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Virginia Mayo relaxes in the arms of Danny Kaye in "The Kid from Brooklyn."

Skulduggery in the prize fight racket motivates Danny Kaye's new starring technicolor comedy, "The Kid From Brooklyn," produced by Samuel Goldwyn for RKO Radio release.

Danny's role is that of an in-offensive milkman who receives undeserved credit for knocking out the world's champion in a street brawl. The champion's slick manager builds Danny up to a match with the champion by a series of phony knockouts, with the idea of betting his bank-roll against Danny in the title fight.

Virginia Mayo as Danny's sweetheart has several songs to sing, and Vera-Ellen as his sister, again proves she is one of the screen's top-notch dancers. Also in the supporting cast are Walter Abel, Eve Arden, Steve Cochran, Fay Bainter and Lionel Stander.
